Call: 2025

E: oliver.friend-smith@11kbw.com

T: 020 7632 8500

Oliver practises in all of Chambers' core areas, including employment, commercial, public, human rights, and information law.

As a pupil, Oliver assisted in a number of significant cases in these areas, such as:

- R (Broadbent) v Secretary of State for the Home Department: a human rights challenge to section 64 of the Police Act 1996, which prohibits police officers from joining trade unions (as a pupil, assisting Patrick Halliday).
- A case before the Employment Appeal Tribunal concerning the interaction between whistleblowing protections and legal professional privilege (assisting Andrew Smith).
- Cruelty Free International v Information Commissioner [2026] UKUT 328 (AAC): a freedom of information appeal in which the Upper Tribunal held that a statutory prohibition on disclosure was in breach of Article 10 ECHR (assisting Peter Lockley).

Oliver is currently instructed by the Information Commissioner (led by Christopher Knight KC) in Farley v Paymaster (1836) Ltd, an appeal to the Supreme Court which will determine whether data protection claims are subject to a threshold of seriousness.

Before coming to the Bar, Oliver graduated with a first-class BA in Law from the University of Cambridge, and a Distinction on the BCL from the University of Oxford. He was a research assistant for the book Reimagining Employment Dispute Resolution and Enforcement, which proposes reforms to the UK's employment tribunal system. He also volunteered with a pro bono organisation representing parents in the school exclusion process.

Expertise

Public and Human Rights

Oliver practises in all areas of public law and human rights. Highlights include:

- Acting for a local authority in a local government reorganisation matter (led by Tom Cross KC).
- R (Broadbent) v Secretary of State for the Home Department: a human rights challenge to section 64 of the Police Act 1996, which prohibits police officers from joining trade unions (as a pupil, assisting Patrick Halliday).
- R (Baron Ranger) v Prime Minister: a judicial review involving a preliminary issue about whether the removal of a person's CBE is justiciable (as a pupil, assisting Christopher Knight KC).
