

Patrick Halliday

Call: 2005

E: Patrick.Halliday@11kbw.com

T: +44 (0)20 7632 8500

Patrick Halliday is a highly regarded specialist in procurement and employment law. His practice also covers public law; pensions law (focusing on public sector schemes, discrimination and public law aspects of pensions); and commercial disputes involving former employees and directors.

Patrick is a member of the Attorney General's "A Panel" of counsel.

He is recommended by the legal directories in four practice areas: procurement (tier one); employment (tier one); administrative & public; and pensions. In June 2021, he was named "Barrister of the Week" in the Lawyer magazine.

Has a really flexible, user-friendly approach and totally understands what is required in a case. You don't have to explain things to him.

WHO'S WHO LEGAL

Expertise

Employment

Patrick has acted in dozens of multi-day trials and numerous appeals to the EAT and the Court of Appeal. Much of his recent work has involved discrimination and whistleblowing claims in the financial services and health sectors; and industrial relations work.

In the High Court, Patrick regularly makes and resists applications for interim relief against current and former employees and directors. He has acted in various team move disputes, including multi- jurisdictional litigation in both the English and Welsh courts and in the DIFC (where he is registered).

Chambers & Partners and Legal 500 both place Patrick in "tier one" out of six tiers of leading employment practitioners.

Patrick Halliday is always impressive and completely in control of his cases. Patrick is also excellent with lay clients.
